MANY PEOPLE MAKE BASEBALL POSSIBLE; MANUEL AZEVEDO GETS SPECIAL PRAISE

SUMMER BASEBALL HAS FINALLY run out of steam 'round and about our town; and not a moment too soon. The players probably could have gone on indefinitely, but the wear and tear on parents was becoming very grave indeed. The agony of watching young Johnny strike out and drop balls was beginning to take its toll and second guessing the coaches had just about exhausted all available strategy.

BOTH THE LITTLE LEAGUE and Babe Ruth All-Stars did very creditably in the District Tournaments, as far as they went. Unfortunately, they didn't go far enough. The Babe Ruthers lost a 2 to 1 squeaker to Hanford in what one and all termed a real good game, but what game is really good if you are on the short end of the score? The trouble with these tournaments is that one loss stops the competing very abruptly, as there is no second chance.

THERE IS AN ILLUSION about all this summer baseball thing that should be dispelled. To John Q. Public, it is just a series of simple ball games among devotees of the sport. Nine players show up and play nine others and the game becomes history. This seems like good, clean fun with no complications, but the intent to have a game is the simplest part of the process, and the final product is synthesized through many steps.

BEHIND ALL THE LEAGUES

there is an army of unsung heroes, who take care of the details of the leagues. Someone has to set up try-outs, someone has to raise and contribute money, someone has to buy equipment, someone has to arrange schedules, someone has to check birth certificates, etc. This someone is usually many people who work anonymously in the background to make these recreational games go. They are rarely thanked, often criticized, and never paid, but both parents and players owe them a vote of thanks.

ONE SUCH HERO WHO deserves a verbal bouquet is Manuel Azevedo, who has sometimes been called "Mr. Babe Ruth". At times, he has also been called other things. Manuel has been involved in the league as coach, board member and president since its start, and is currently district director on the state board. He is as much a fixture at the contests as the ball park itself, constantly circulating about trying to pour oil on the troubled waters and keep the league on an even keel. He has done a good job, too, where the others have shied away.

MANUEL IS ONLY ONE. There are many others who have worked diligently year in and year out to make this summer baseball recreation program go. And bluntly, if it weren't for people like him, there would be no summer baseball program.

THREE NAMED 4-H ALL STAR CANDIDATES

PORTERVILLE, Aug. 2 — Three "local" Tulare county 4-H members are included among a select group of 13 county members who are candidates to receive the top honor at the county 4-H level — selection as a 1962 Tulare County All-Star.

Gordon Todd, of Ducor; Dennis Dunbar, of Pleasant View; and Ann Kennedy, of Burton, are among the 13 named on a basis of 4-H club achievements.

Final step in the selection of three boys and three girls for 1962 All Star award will be based on personal interviews to be conducted Friday, August 31, at the Southern California Edison Company Living center in Visalia.

Others being considered for the top honor are: Louis Whitendale, East Lynne; Rocky Loop, Taurusa; Mike Nunn, Muy Bonita; Kenneth Saylor, Earlimart; David Bixler, Tulare; Linda Wilkinson, Union; Pat Williams, Oak Grove; Ludy Lynn Petersen, Columbine; and Barbara Dutto and Carole Minoletti, Waukena.

Tulare county, along with other counties in the state, will select a boy and a girl as candidates for the highest California 4-H honor, selection as a Diamond Star, with these candidates to also be named August 31.

Two girls and four boys, previously selected as county All-Stars, are eligible as Diamond Star candidates: John Smith, Jr., and Less Guthrie, of Ducor; John Saylor, Jr., Earlimart; Eddie Bradley, Columbine; Frances Hadcock, Liberty; and Helen Rae Moos, Union.

Final selection of the county's top 4-H club members is based on individual growth in 4-H; per-

NATIONAL AWARDS 4-H WINNERS MEDALISTS NAMED FOR TULARE COUNTY

VISALIA, Aug. 2 — County winners and medalists have been selected for 4-H project and activity contests in the National Awards program, with a committee of 4-H leaders considering the best record books from each of the county's 41 clubs.

Tulare county winners will compete for state honors and a trip to the National 4-H Congress in Chicago, November 25-29. Following are southern Tulare county award winners (listed first) and medalists:

Dennis Dunbar, Pleasant View, general field, and swine; John Smith, Jr., Ducor, and John Saylor, Jr., Earlimart, boys' agricul-

CARLA CLOER, of Porterville, who will represent Tulare county in a "Maid of California" contest that will be held during the State fair in Sacramento. Miss Cloer, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bill Cloer, will be presented in the contest by Gil Swift, vice president of the Tulare county chamber of commerce. The county chamber is sponsoring Miss Cloer, who is also Miss Tulare county, by request of the board of supervisors. Along with representatives of other California counties, she will be in Sacramento August 29 for preliminary ceremonies; the contest is scheduled for August 30. Miss Cloer recently competed in a Miss California contest as a representative of the county, being picked as a finalist and winning top honors in the talent category.

INCREASED INTEREST IN MUSEUM

PORTERVILLE, Aug. 2 — Continuing and increasing interest in the establishing of the old Southern Pacific depot in Porterville as a museum is reported by Chet Griswold, president of the Porterville chamber of commerce.

"We think this property could be built into a real show place for the southern Tulare county area," Griswold says. "In addition, relics of the past could be preserved, and the names of pioneer families honored."

Griswold states, however, that a number of problems are as yet unsolved. There is the matter of an estimated $25,000 that it would take to renovate the old building, with present idea being to develop a campaign for contributions to cover this amount.

As yet the Porterville chamber of commerce has come to no satisfactory agreement with officials of the Southern Pacific railroad, since the chamber wants a permanent donation of the entire property for a museum site, while railroad officials are thinking in terms of granting perhaps a 25-year lease on the building, with a short notice removal clause, and no title to the real estate.

Latest move by the chamber is to ask Southern Pacific officials if they will give the property to the city in order to preserve the historic station building if the community can pledge the $25,000 for renovation. As yet there has been no answer to this proposition.

Future problem involves ultimate care and administration of a museum if the other first problems can be taken care of.

"We're still working, and we're checking every possible angle," Griswold says. "Meanwhile inter-

Rabies Clinic At Springville, Today

SPRINGVILLE, Aug. 2 — Rabies clinic and mandatory dog vaccination is set for the Springville Fire station from 6 p.m. until 7 p.m. today, with Dr. Robert A. Dove, veterinarian, in charge. Fees are: Two dollars for vaccination of dogs; three dollars for license.

Junior Women's Club Launches Two-Fold Campaign For Car Safety

PORTERVILLE, Aug. 2 — The Porterville Junior Women's club has launched a two-fold campaign to promote car safety in the community, with special price obtained for installation of auto safety belts and children's harness, as well as periodic safety checks of automobiles.

The campaign will continue through the month of August under direction of Mrs. Norman Pettis, safety chairman for the Junior Women's club; Mrs. Robert Mills, club president, and Mrs. Chester Doggett, vice president.

Cooperating with the club woman is Marty's, at D and Oak streets, where a price of $5.97 has been set for installation of auto safety belts, and where a special reduced price is offered for installation.

GETTING THE word to all parents that an auto harness can be a lifesaver is Scott Mills, who says the harness works when you're standing, laying on the seat, or just sitting there. It's all part of a safety campaign that the Porterville Junior Women's club is putting on during the month of August to encourage the installation of children's safety harness and adult safety belts in "everyone's car." With Scott, in center photo, is Mrs. Norman Pettis, safety chairman for the Junior Women's club, and at right, adjusting her new safety belt, is Mrs. Robert Mills, president of the club. Special prices on installed car safety belts and harness are being given at Marty's during August, in cooperation with the Junior Women's club; a coupon, being run in The Farm Tribune and Evening Recorder, must be presented at Marty's in order to receive the special, car safety campaign price.

Editorial Comment

I Believe . . .

The creed of John D. Rockefeller Jr. was inscribed on a marble memorial dedicated July 16, at Rockefeller Center of which he was the founder. Three of his sons, David, Laurence, and Nelson, and his second wife Martha, took part in the ceremony.

Mr. Rockefeller first included his creed in a public address at Fisk University, Nashville. This is the text:

I believe in the supreme worth of the individual and in his right to life, liberty, and the pursuit of happiness.

I believe that every right implies a responsibility; every opportunity, an obligation; every possession, a duty.

I believe that the law was made for man and not man for the law; that government is the servant of the people and not their master.

I believe in the dignity of labor, whether with head or hand; that the world owes no man a living but that it owes every man an opportunity to make a living.

I believe that thrift is essential to well-ordered living and that economy is a prime requisite of a sound financial structure, whether in government, business or personal affairs.

I believe that truth and justice are fundamental to an enduring social order.

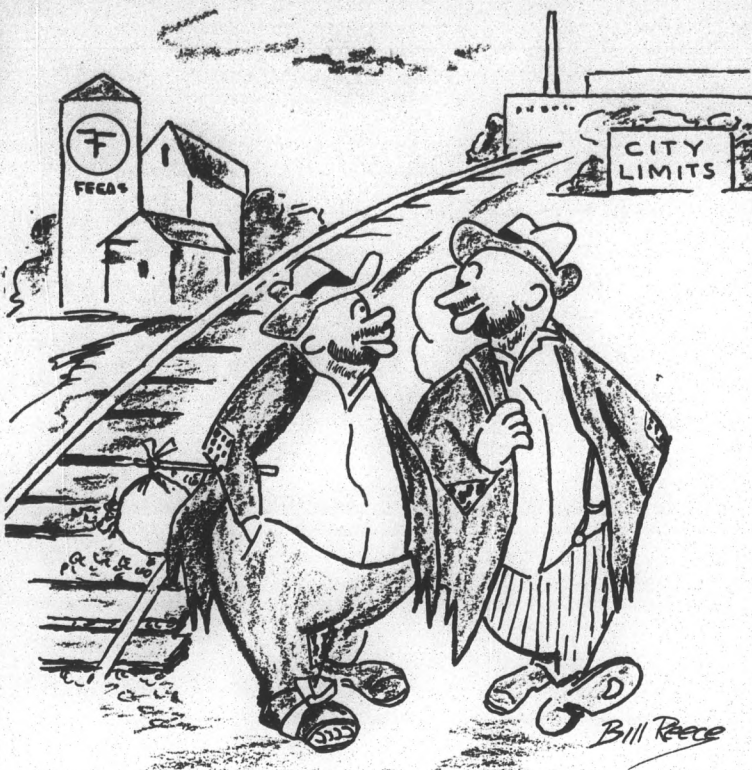

I believe in the sacredness of a promise, that a man's word should be as good as his bond; that character—not wealth or power or position—is of supreme worth.

I believe that the rendering of useful service is the common duty of mankind and that only in the purifying fire of sacrifice is the dross of selfishness consumed and the greatness of the human soul set free.

I believe in the all-wise and all-loving God, named by whatever name, and that the individual's highest fulfillment, greatest happiness, and widest usefulness are to be found in living in harmony with His will.

I believe that love is the greatest thing in the world; that it alone can overcome hate; that right can and will triumph over might.

(From the Christian Science Monitor)

"Look, Mac, business ain't no good here. They say Tulare or Visalia is where we ought to be."

National Scene

Washington, Aug. 2 — The outstanding domestic question confronting President Kennedy is this: Should Congress be requested to cut taxes this year, in order to stimulate economic growth, or should action be postponed until next year.

What Mr. Kennedy's decision will be is not yet clear. There is sharp conflict of opinion among his economic and political advisers and among members of Congress.

Against this background Reps. Herlong (D-Fla.) and Baker (R-Tenn.) have introduced identical bills to lower personal and corporation income tax rates by a series of five annual reductions—with a provision that, after the original cut on next January 1, further action would be postponed in the event of budget imbalance.

Under the measure—over a five-year period—the personal income tax rate would be lowered from a maximum of 91 percent to a peak of 42 percent. The lowest bracket rate would be cut from 20 percent to 15 percent, thereby assuring every taxpayer a reduction of at least 25 percent. Other brackets would be lowered correspondingly.

The corporation tax rate would be reduced by two percentage points a year, thereby lowering it from 52 percent to 42 percent.

The authors of the legislation are members of the Ways and Means Committee which originates all tax legislation.

Backers of the measure contend that it has many advantages over other proposals being put forward, including:

1. It offers a practical approach for obtaining tax rate reform within the framework of a balanced federal budget.
2. It would make available needed capital for investment in the modernization and expansion of industry to enable it to compete more effectively with products manufactured abroad.

3. The initial cost in federal revenue would be only $1 billion for the 1963 fiscal year (which started on July 1), thereby minimizing the effect on budget imbalance.

For a full year after 1963, the revenue loss would be $3.7 billion annually—$2.7 billion to go to individuals and $1 billion to corporations—not taking into consideration the revenue increase that would be expected to result from a revitalized economy.

4. A five-year program would enable business to make long-term plans—which would be impossible under more limited proposals.

The preponderance of thinking within the Administration is that a tax cut now would be beneficial to the economy.

It is clear also that any proposal to be made by the Administration will include reduction of both individual and corporate taxes and that individual tax cuts will not be confined exclusively to the bottom bracket.

But there is another question to which Mr. Kennedy as yet has no clear answer. It is this: Is tax reduction legislation politically feasible at this time?

Obtaining the correct answer—from his standpoint—is obviously all important to Mr. Kennedy, particularly with the 1962 congressional elections only three and one-half months distant.

Some members of the congressional economy bloc are recommending: (1) That Mr. Kennedy scuttle his omnibus tax bill and (2) that he eliminate all unessential government spending so that the budget will be brought into balance.

Such action, they contend, could facilitate enactment of tax reduction legislation like the Herlong-Baker bill and thus remove existing road blocks to the nation's economic expansion.

Two Communities Say They Will Not Have Fair Booth

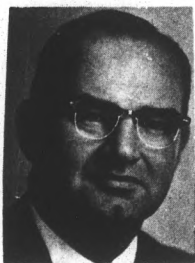

TULARE, Aug. 2 — Two county communities — Terra Bella and Exeter, have stated they will not have exhibits in the 1962 Tulare County fair. Both are long-time exhibitors.

Word comes from Terra Bella that no one is willing to assume responsibility for the work involved in placing a booth in the fair. Representatives of the Exeter community are not satisfied with judging at the fair. Alfred Elliott, fair manager, says that judging is done on a basis of state rules.

COUNTY POPULATION HITS 174,000

SACRAMENTO, Aug. 2 — Tulare county's population is now set at 174,000 by the State Finance department, up .8 per cent from last year. California, during the past year, has gained 3.9 per cent, with a population figure now of 17,094,000.

THE OUTLOOK

The customary semi-annual review of business and forecast of things to come are crossing our desk. Following is a brief outlook as prepared by a couple of researchers, Keystone Company of Boston and National Securities and Research Corporation.

GROSS NATIONAL PRODUCT . . . will be up about 4% to $562 billion by the end of the year, despite the stock market weakness in the first half.

INDUSTRIAL PRODUCTION . . . reached a new high during the second quarter. If the normal operation of the economy can be quickly restored, this may be the shortest and mildest recession on record.

CORPORATE PROFITS . . . are declining after hitting a peak in the first half. Earnings in the second half will be about equal to the $24.5 billion registered in the final half of 1961.

FEDERAL BUDGET FOR FISCAL 1963 . . . is likely to show a substantial deficit as the Administration takes steps to "get the economy moving again."

MONEY MARKET CONDITIONS . . . have remained surprisingly easy. Some tightening is anticipated, should financial centers overseas become concerned again with the persistent deficit in the balance of payments.

BUSINESSMEN ARE CAUTIOUS . . . because of the abnormal increase in the number of uncertainties confronting them.

National Securities and Research Corp. concludes their forecast . . . "we expect corporate profits for 1962 to stay fairly near the first quarter rate of approximately $26.4 billion. In our opinion total corporate dividends will increase by 8%."

"The prices of many common stocks have now declined to areas where, in our opinion, they reflect more historical appraisals of value. Average yields have risen to well above the 4% level and are now about equal to high grade corporate bond yields for the first time since 1958. We believe that at these levels, common stocks represent selective buying opportunities for the long term investor."

Corrosion costs the oil, gas, and chemical industries $5.5 billions a year!

Rust - encrusted pipe must be cleaned by immersion in acids and caustics. After sandblasting, the pipe is ready for a protective coating of plastic. These coatings have been applied to millions of feet of pipe in the past ten years or so, by a company that has pioneered in this field.

What causes spirited corrosion? Christians who once were channels of blessing to their church and community — why do they dry up?

Well, the pipeline of blessing is a two-way line — upward and outward. Before we can carry a blessing to our neighbors, it's important that the vertical end of our pipe — the loading terminal — be securely connected to the Source, and be free of rust.

Rust? Any eating-away process that chokes the line — corrosives like careless living, unbelief, worldliness, lack of prayer, etc.

Any cure for being rusty and crusty? Yes, immersion in God's Spirit, God's love and power. The Bible call this immersion the Baptism of the Holy Ghost (Acts 2:4)

What about a tough protective coating — a spiritual rust preventive?

Yes, God provides this, too, for the Christian, to keep him from rusting and crusting. What is it? The Bible explains, "The disciples were filled with JOY, and with the Holy Ghost" (Acts 13:52).

JOY — the joy of the Lord — that's the heavenly rust preventive.

The man who enjoys praying, enjoys worshipping God, enjoys Sunday school work, enjoys visiting the sick and needy, enjoys giving his time and talents and treasure to upbuilding God's kingdom — such a man will never become a rusty and crusty Christian. Such a man is obeying Christ's command: "Freely ye have received, freely give" (Matthew 10:8).

This time of year both the gardener and the garden require protection from the hot dry winds. For the gardener a cool can of hop juice may do the trick, but for the flowers it's a continual mulching and sprinkling from June to October.

Mulching is just another name for putting leaves, peat moss, forest humus, or shavings around your plants. When you consider that the soil temperature can be over a hundred and fifty degrees when the air is only a hundred, you can see the need for some insulation.

Watering is still required, both in the soil and sprinkled on the leaves. Some special flower beds would be much improved with a fine mist spray. A permanent pipe with small humidifying nozzles could help cool your patio along with growing better azaleas and ferns.

Apart from keeping cool there is little that has to be done during August. However, by the end of the month it will be time for the Central valley's second spring. Many things from sweet peas to vegetables will be plantable and you can prepare for a couple of months of ideal weather during September and October. This will be here before you know it and, if you're not ready, gone before you have done anything about it. If you need help, you'll find it on "E" Street-North of Olive.

We Only Heard

BY BILL RODGERS

READ IN the paper where an attractive young lady in the great land of southern California got put in the clink just because she was apprehended in a compromising situation with a man who happened to not be her husband . . . And in the same paper there was a paragraph or two about a couple of professional flowers of the night who had also been chunked into the clink because they were detected plying their trade . . . Then we read about State Welfare Director John Wedemeyer, who says that if a woman who is on the Aid To Needy Children program moves in with a man who is not her husband, or vice versa, this is all right, since the "strange" man in the house can be considered a stepfather, even without the formality of that old-fashioned piece of paper — a marriage license . . . All this confuses us considerably, but after a great spinning of what mental wheels we possess, we sort of conclude that if you are an ordinary woman, or if you are a professional street walker, you better not get caught having illicit relations with a man, unless you want to get tossed in the pokey. However, if you are a woman in the ANC program, go right ahead. Not only do the welfare people officially approve your action, they'll finance it out of tax money . . . Man are we confused . . . And we'll be further confused if our two daughters read this and ask us for further explanation about the quaint mores of the modern welfare state . . . Incidentally, how do you explain such things to your children?

MAY WE call your attention to our Editorial Comments column in which we reprint the creed of John D. Rockefeller, Jr. And might we suggest that you read this creed as an expression of true liberalism as opposed to the so-called liberalism of today, a modern misnamed liberalism that replaces opportunity with welfare; replaces dignity of the individual with dictates of a bureaucratic government; replaces individual responsibility with governmental beneficence; replaces the idea that it is man's duty to contribute to mankind and to society with

WE SOMETIMES wonder what "Community Progress" really is. We suspect that it consists of changes with which a specific individual agrees, but which other individuals may consider to be foolishness . . . We have noticed a number of instances through the years where persons from other communities get acquainted with the Porterville community; they like it here; in fact they like it enough better than where they happen to live that they sell out where they are, establish themselves in the Porterville area, then immediately start agitating for "progress" that will make Porterville just like the community they left because they liked Porterville better.

ANOTHER OF Porterville's landmarks is falling in the path of progress - the old Redfield house that was built from Redwood of the Sierra nearly 75 years ago by Leroy Redfield. The property at the corner of Hockett and Thurman has been purchased by T. J. Davis and Associates, of Visalia, who plan to construct a commercial building there - possibly a new office for the Southern California Gas company. The old house has been sold to Eric Kleam, who is now demolishing it. The Redfield family lived in the house following its construction, later the Arthur A. Abbey family, and the Lawrence Abbeys. Dr. Troy Cox purchased the house in 1953, remodeled it, and lived there for several years. A barn that formerly stood behind the house was moved to the Sol Rodgers ranch on Scenic heights, where it is still being used by Margaret Rodgers. Large walnut trees once shaded the old house. ested persons are meeting informally to talk over various possibilities."

For several years there has been general talk of a museum for the area, and at one time a Porterville city museum committee was active.

At the present time there are certain documents, photos, old papers and such items cataloged and filed in the city library, but this effort has "only scratched the surface."

If the Southern Pacific property can be secured, it is anticipated that the old passenger station building would be put back in shape, the grounds landscaped and fenced, and space provided not only for smaller items of historical interest, but large items as well.
